KEEPING YOUR PEOPLE SAFE

Just as the security of citizens is the first responsibility of a government, so the safety and security of employees – particularly employees dispatched to volatile and dangerous parts of the world – is the first responsibility of a company.

McGowan Global Protection & Response (GP&R) – A comprehensive response and evacuation service for organizations to take their people out of harm’s way. The safety and security of employees and students is the first responsibility of a company. GP&R has been designed to address this essential need, providing comprehensive emergency services to enable companies to take their employees out of harm’s way.

In recent years, almost 300,000 U.S. students studied abroad. According to the Institute of International Education, student participation in study abroad has more than tripled over the past decade. For employees or students who risks being stranded overseas in a perilous location or with a dangerous medical condition that needs treatment, the imperative is a swift response, and if needed, a safe exit.

For companies with hundreds of employees and/or students traveling abroad, this is not a simple challenge. No two scenarios are alike and the best response will likely derive from a long experience of handling the varied risks that can arise. That is why GP&R has set up a panel of experienced experts located, physically, in every country of the globe to respond to employees emergency needs.

THREAT MONITORING AND RESPONSE COORDINATION

G-CP&R uses the NGS crisis operations centre to help clients monitor threats to their employees and to implement the necessary response. The centre is staffed by former military personnel with extensive experience of providing advice in crisis situations. One phone call will provide access to all the support a client needs.

Staff at the NGS crisis operations centre are empowered to trigger the Beazley Flight policy and liaise with the worldwide responders including: red24, Specialty Assist, or a specialist chosen by an insured.

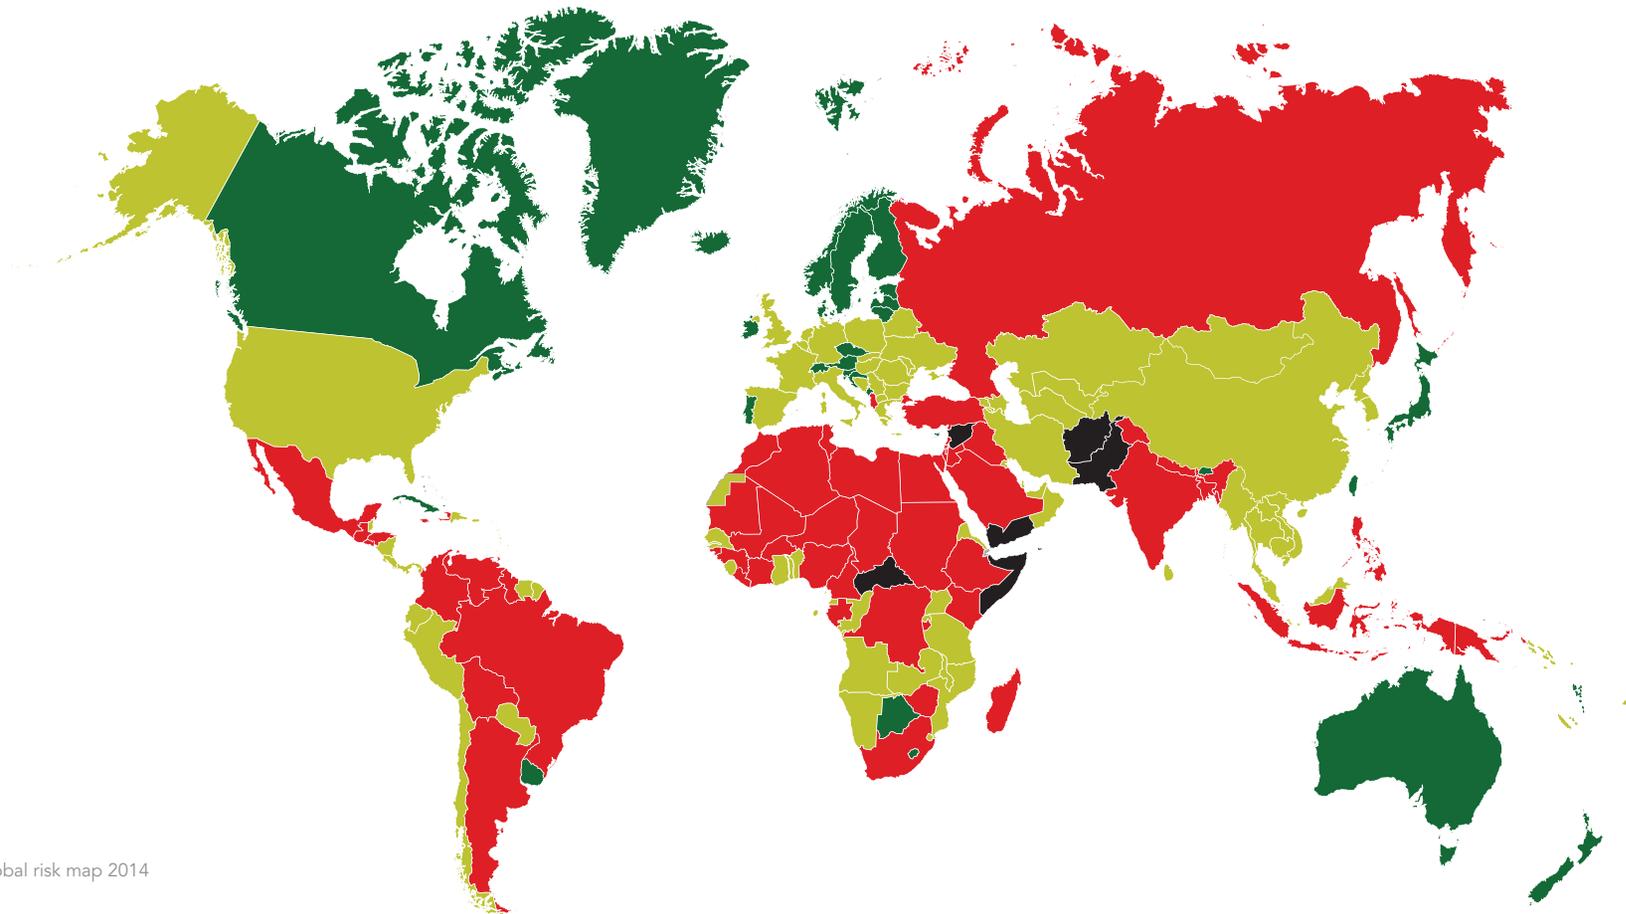

A DANGEROUS WORLD

The map below is reproduced from red24's 2014 Threat Forecast. In common with all documents of its kind, the ratings of individual countries are subject to rapid change as political and economic conditions improve in some parts of the world and deteriorate in others.

The broader point of the map, however, is that a very large proportion of the world's landmass can fairly be classified as "high" or "extreme" risk. That is unlikely to change rapidly.

Key

 Low Risk	 High Risk
 Medium Risk	 Extreme Risk

In situations of acute medical risk, where local treatment facilities are inadequate, on the ground capabilities and expertise are essential.
