Subject: US SUPPLIER APPROVAL: IP Video Surveillance Solutions

On behalf of McDonald's US Security, I am pleased to announce the recent approval of two IP video surveillance solutions as a result of the Data Collection Device Initiative. Long time McDonald's System partner and approved supplier, Universal Atlantic Systems (UAS), and newly approved supplier, Wachter, both have multi-camera IP video solutions available immediately for direct purchase at negotiated rates.

The introduction of IP video technology in our restaurants is exciting for many reasons and highly recommended by US Security for new restaurant installations. Some benefits of this new technology are as follows:

- Better Image Quality / Wider Field of View: potential for less cameras and fewer points of failure.
- Easier Integration with other Restaurant Systems: POS, Exception Based Reporting, Analytics to Track and Better Manage Loss, etc.
- Future Proofing through Flexibility and Scalability: As needs and technology change, we will have the ability to expand our camera systems in terms of both functionality and number of cameras and incur minimal costs.

Even more so now than in the past, these systems are not only critical security and safety tools, but they are also important Operations tools as well. In addition to helping protect your restaurant's customers and crew by deterring crime and providing reliable evidence of restaurant activity in case of an event, these systems are also able to assist Operations in areas such as employee training, staffing, process implementation, etc.

These standard and customizable systems are available for direct purchase via the following channels immediately.
